

The page features a vertical column on the left side containing a series of 'X' characters. Each 'X' is formed by two overlapping, slightly curved lines. The main body of the page is a grid for writing practice. It consists of a series of horizontal lines, with every second line shaded in light gray. Additionally, there are vertical lines that are slanted at a 5-degree angle from the vertical. The grid is designed to help practice consistent letter height and slant in a calligraphic script.