

The image shows a calligraphy practice grid. On the left side, there is a vertical ruler with alternating black and white segments. Four 'X' marks are placed on the ruler at regular intervals. The main grid consists of a series of vertical lines that are slightly slanted to the right. There are four sets of horizontal guidelines, each consisting of a top line, a middle line, and a bottom line. The area between the middle and bottom lines of each set is shaded light gray. The grid is intended for practicing the consistent slant and proportions of a calligraphic script.